TO THE ALUMNI OF THE PAST, PRESENT, AND FUTURE:

In this yearbook we are departing from the style of previous attempts in an effort to give you a full picture of our daily school life, curricular and extracurricular, here at George Washington University. Herein we propose to show to you the strides made within the past years (with the help of our alumni) and to acquaint you with the plans for the future that our University has made.

To help you follow our activities we have endeavored to provide continuity by the use of almanac form. And we hereby express our thanks and appreciation to Ben Franklin and his Poor Richard, who have been our pattern and inspiration.

SEPTEMBER

Think of three Things,
whence you came,
where you are going,
and to whom you must account.

Poor Richard, 1755

September 1948

COURTEOUS READER:

The playing of sports took the prominent position during this merry month of September, with the G. W. U. Colonials successfully competing in football games with Wake Forest and V. P. I., both being institutions of higher learning and located in North Carolina and Virginia. Poor George says that our team consisted of spirited gentlemen who fought gamely, though losing one of these contests.

On the 18th day of the month olde students pre-registered for the fall term and resolved to perform their lessons more studiously than in the past.

Upon their registration at the later date in the month, new students were presented with the University Handbook, which most clearly shewed them of the campus and student activities.

With the success of the G.W.-V.P.I. game in September, the worth of the new Colonial coaching staff became noticeable. However, Coach Bo Rowland's assistants, apparently modest fellows, have thus far remained mainly in the background. Nevertheless, their contributions were most valuable in the development of the team. Assistant coach Bo Sherman must be given credit for his work in welding the tough Colonial line, and also for keeping the morale of the team on such a high plane. But certainly not to be overlooked are the contributions made by assistant coaches Roger Antaya, Tim Swett, and Andy Victor. Antaya assisted Rowland and Sherman; Swett and Victor built and developed a fine freshman squad which promises to provide the '49 Varsity eleven with new talent.

This Handbook was prepared by the Student Council for the information and assistance of their fellow students.

THE UNIVERSITY HANDBOOK

"The history of the George Washington University begins as an idea in the mind of the 'Father of Our Country.' George Washington had long proposed the founding of a university in 'our capital city,' and to assure the enactment of this plan, he provided in his will for the endowment of an institution 'to which the youth of fortune and talents from all parts . . . might be sent for the completion of their education in all branches of polite literature; in arts and sciences; in acquiring knowledge in the principles of politics and good government.'" . . .

So the questioning freshman and the transfer students are first informed of this University through our Student Handbook, which this year was given free to all students. In addition to being a student's pocket-guide to the activities on campus, a general outline of the organizations and a directory are contained within the book.

The Handbook continues: "Today, the University, in all its diverse branches, has become one of the nation's leading seats of higher education and research, following a great tradition of which we may all be proud." . . .

OCTOBER

Silence is not always a Sign of Wisdom,
But Babbling is ever a Folly.

Poor Richard, 1758.

October 1948

Courteous Reader:

Poor George presents the following elegy in memory of "Full Time Leisure" which passed away October 4. . . .

Come let us mourn, for we have lost
Our full time recreation
Which has lately taken flight, and Greatly we have mist it.

"Leisure," however, left a ghost; for the remainder of the month has been a merry one with many amusements. Previously, on October 2, the Colonials fans lament'd the loss of a football game to V. M. I. The game mark'd mascot George's initial appearance as the Colonial "Bringer of Luck."

"What is a social butterfly? At best it's but a bookworm drest," and, in truth, new students did lay aside their books, dress in their best and attend the gay and somewhat maddening sorority and fraternity rush parties. As it was truly a continuous rush from one party to another, these events actually lived up to their titles.

On October 9, the Colonials follow'd Poor George's suggestion that "Industry makes all things easy" and travel'd to Charlottesville and overcame the University of Virginia in a football game for the first time since 1897, the score being 20 to 12. However, all was not Folly and Sport. A group of speakers sponsored by the Current Affairs Club held a forum concerning National Elections on the 20th.

Poor George is convinced that the most important events of this busy month center'd around the annual Homecoming Festivities and activities. Nearly a month before the Homecoming game of football with Maryland, Testudo the Turtle disappear'd from Maryland territory thereby arousing the wrath of Maryland scholars. All circumstances of things consider'd, Poor George says that Homecoming prov'd of utmost value to the felicity of the month.

On Tuesday, October 26, the young ladies of Strong Hall were hostesses at a tea-party honouring Mrs. Hattie M. Strong, the founder of the dormitory. It also happen'd that on October 30, the Modern Dance Group attended a symposium at Wilson College in Pennsylvania, while on the same day the stalwart and spirited Colonials travel'd to Easton for a clash with the Lafayette eleven.

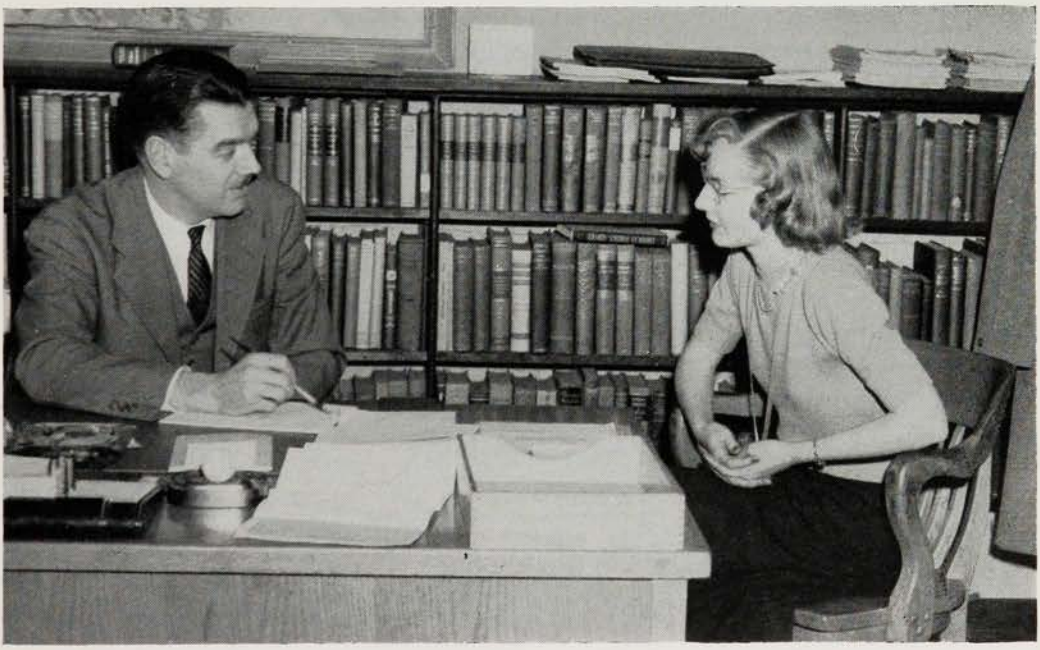

No portrayal of a year of campus life would be complete without a recognition of the men who guide us through that oft-neglected phase of our scholarly careers, our studies. Few will ever forget the introduction to economic theory provided by Doctor Miller, with the unique graphs that really are perfectly understandable your third time through the course. The counseling given by Doctor Burns to struggling Government majors is also of great value, for he is the one man who actually can explain the complexities of a group option. Above all, Doctor Hansen soon communicates to us his avid enthusiasm for zoology and the depicted skate. The first day of classes is always a refreshing preview of the work to come and the confusion to reign.

New students are annually introduced to campus life through the Freshman Orientation Program. The first event was held on the first Monday of the school year in Lisner Auditorium where the Glee Club opened the ceremony by singing the Alma Mater. President Marvin then delivered the principal orientation speech, followed by Student Council President 'Bill Warner, who further welcomed the Freshmen in behalf of the student body. The cheerleaders then led a few rousing cheers, and all were urged to attend the activities display in the lower lobby, where the major campus organizations explained their functions and recruited new members. The following Friday, the Orientation Program was concluded by a dance held in the Gymnasium. President Marvin and other Officers, Deans, and dignitaries of the University received the new students, and all were given a chance to become better acquainted throughout the evening.

Big Sisters is a campus organization composed of upper class women who aid new students to The University in "making themselves at home."

At the opening of school in the fall term, besides individual counseling, Big Sisters wholeheartedly helped in Freshman orientation. Included in the events were a coffee hour before registration, a reception and tea, a Nosebag Lunch, and finally a panel discussion for all new students in which members of Mortar Board took part.

Guiding the new women students in their orientation activities were the officers of Big Sis: Mildred McDowell, president; Louise Odineal, vice president; Sylvia Srnka, registrar; Barbara Stone, corresponding secretary; Ann Arnold, treasurer; Peggy Babcock and Betty Swanson, membership secretaries; Dede Thompson, music chairman; Joan Suppes, social chairman; Wilma Bailey, publicity chairman.

Members of Big Sis gather in Strong Hall Lounge.

COLONIAL BOOSTERS

"George," the new Colonial mascot, is introduced at the University of Virginia game.

Colonial Boosters was founded in August of this year, by ODK members in response to a widespread demand for an organization which would foster greater support of the University football team. An executive committee composed of members of ODK, the Student Council, the Hatchet, Mortar Board, The Homecoming Committee, the Cheerleaders, the Interfraternity Council, and Pan-Hel, was founded to draw up plans for bigger pep rallies, create a suitable mascot, and form a student cheering section.

In three short months Colonial Booster memberships had jumped from around 30 to over 800 members, making it the second largest organization of its kind in the country. During the football season, Colonial Boosters publicized and planned over fifteen campus pep rallies in conjunction with the cheerleaders. "George," the popular G. W. mascot, was originated and took a leading part in all rallies and football entertainment. Under the leadership of Colonial Boosters, half-time entertainment improved immensely over that of preceding years and was highlighted by such things as the crack Army Drill Team and the Air Forces Band exhibition.

HOMECOMING

Jimmy Dorsey's orchestra, playing at the Homecoming Dance on Saturday night, wound up one of G. W.'s finest Homecoming weekends. Festivities included the crowning of the Homecoming Queen Friday night, the G. W.-Maryland game Saturday and the Homecoming Dance at Uline Arena Saturday evening.

Lisner Auditorium was ablaze with lights and among the visiting celebrities were Jay Carmody, Evening Star drama critic who acted as Master of Ceremonies; Arch MacDonald and Dave Pollen, who together with Dean Henry Grattan Doyle judged the Homecoming Queen contest.

Saturday morning at 10:30 alumni registered in Columbian House. Cups were awarded to Pi Beta Phi and Pi Kappa Alpha for bringing back the most number of alumni from their chapters to this Homecoming.

The Parade formed on campus and proceeded to Griffith Stadium, passing the judges' stand on Constitution Avenue, where the floats of Sigma Nu, Tau Kappa Epsilon and The Sailing Association were judged first, second and third respectively.

Following the unfortunate Homecoming game, the gala Homecoming Ball was held at Uline Arena with the newly crowned queen, Lois Anne Brackett, Sigma Kappa's candidate, presiding.

The planning and coordinating of all Homecoming festivities was under the direction of Tom Dougherty and his co-chairmen, Marilyn Brownfield and John Douglas.

STRONG HALL TEA

Mrs. Hattie M. Strong, donor of Strong Hall, the women's residence on the campus, was honored on Tuesday, October 26, 1948, at a party in the lounge. Miss Paula Powdermaker, President of the Dormitory Council, presented an orchid to Mrs. Strong as the girls sang "Happy Birthday," helping to celebrate her 82nd.

Mrs. Strong's son, Colonel L. Corrin Strong and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. Cloyd H. Marvin, and Major General and Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant, III, were specially invited guests.

Entertainment was furnished by Betty Birkicht, Margaret Babcock, and Gloria Binzell. Miss Sewell, hostess of Strong Hall, and Mrs. Lee, hostess of Staughton Hall, supervised the refreshments.

Strong Hall has dormitory facilities for over 100 girls. A social committee arranges open houses and informal parties from time to time.

"Mother" Strong serves cake to President Marvin at the tea in her honor as Paula Powdermaker, President of Strong Hall, looks on.

The "Great Campaign" initiated the G. W. Players into the realm of Expressionism. Our production was staged in constructivism, with ramps, seesaws and swings representing emotions in various stages. The levels signify the various emotions felt by the people. The humble farmer from Zanesville, candidate for president, reached the top level, while his machine-chosen candidate rarely left the ground. Professor Mangum, who directed this show, and Dr. Natalie White, who directed "John Loves Mary" have raised the standards of the productions given and in time, it is hoped, the G. W. Players will be rivaling nearby schools in Dramatic Arts. It is believed that the Universities are the only hopes for the experimental theater. They alone can perpetuate good theater, raise the standards and retain it as a member of the arts.

STUDENT UNION BUILDING

Students are eagerly awaiting the completion of the new Student Union building, set for next Fall. It will include a cafeteria and snack bar on the first floor, a general recreation room on the second, game rooms on the third, and a large dancing floor on the fourth. There will also be space for additional student activities. No longer will all the bridge-playing, musical, digestive, and conversational pursuits be confined to the basement of building C. Perhaps the old-time addicts of smoke and confusion will miss the dull roar and the S.R.O., but none can deny the improvement in student welfare to be provided by the Student Union. Quiet relaxation between classes will be a possibility for the harried scholar at last.

NOVEMBER

'Tis easier to suppress the first Desire,
Than to satisfy all that follow it.

Poor Richard, 1751.

November 1948

Courteous Reader:

October being concluded and the Homecoming business therefore at an end, Pi Beta Phi, Kappa Delta, Chi Omega, and Delta Zeta honored their pledges at formal dancing parties, these affairs being reported notable successes. Among other social events at which various scholars reported having laughed, danced, and had a thoroughly delightful time, were the Hillel Ball of Fire at which Scholar Joe Buell was crowned "Apollo" by Miss Jody Miller; the Sigma Chi Pirates Ball, a very gay affair; and the Canterbury Club Barn Dance, which was indeed a colorful event.

The campus was truly lively with activity on the weekend of the 20th. On Friday the Bender Building, the new home of campus activity offices, was warmed considerably as the new occupants moved in. Friday evening, many scholars gathered in the Student Club for another Buff "n" Blue dance with the music being supplied by a gentleman named Larry Laine. Saturday afternoon the Colonials undertook the truly public-spirited project of administering defeat to the Georgetown University Hoyas in a game of football and verily succeeded in this noble project with a score of 13 to 7. This business was concluded successfully for the first time in the 58 years in which Colonial teams have met with the Hoyas in the playing of football. Earlier in the month the Colonial gentlemen were victorious over The Citadel with the score being 14 to 0, and had met with less success in a football game with Duke University.

University music lovers gathered in Lisner Auditorium on the 10th for a Fall concert of the Air Force Concert Orchestra and Glee Club, which was, as last year, very entertaining and enjoyable to the audience.

On November 14th, gentlemen scholars on campus were invited on a tour of Strong Hall for the first time in its 12 years' history; the inspection was very orderly, and the gentlemen are said to have immensely enjoyed it.

Also Fall convocation, Class Elections, and Cheerleader auditions were prominent happenings in October.

At the presentation ceremonies were Dr. Eliot Wadsworth, President Marvin, Mr. W. S. Pratt, and Mr. Douglass Poteat.

On December 7, 1948, the District Division of the National Office of the American Cancer Society and the National Office of the American Cancer Society presented The University with a total of $32,500 for the purpose of cancer research. Twenty-thousand dollars of the grant was presented by the District Division, while $12,500 was contributed by the national office of the Society. Present on the occasion were Doctor Eliot Wadsworth, vice president of the District of Columbia Division of the American Cancer Society; Mr. Douglass Poteat, executive vice president of the American Cancer Society; Mr. W. S. Pratt, of the Warwick Memorial Clinic; and Doctor Cloyd H. Marvin, president of the University. As a result of these grants, the University will be able to further its "research fight" against Cancer.

For the GWU Phi Mu's the social year began with an open house in Sorority Hall. The outstanding event of the fall semester was the sorority's Pledge Formal which was held this year at the Chevy Chase Woman's Club.

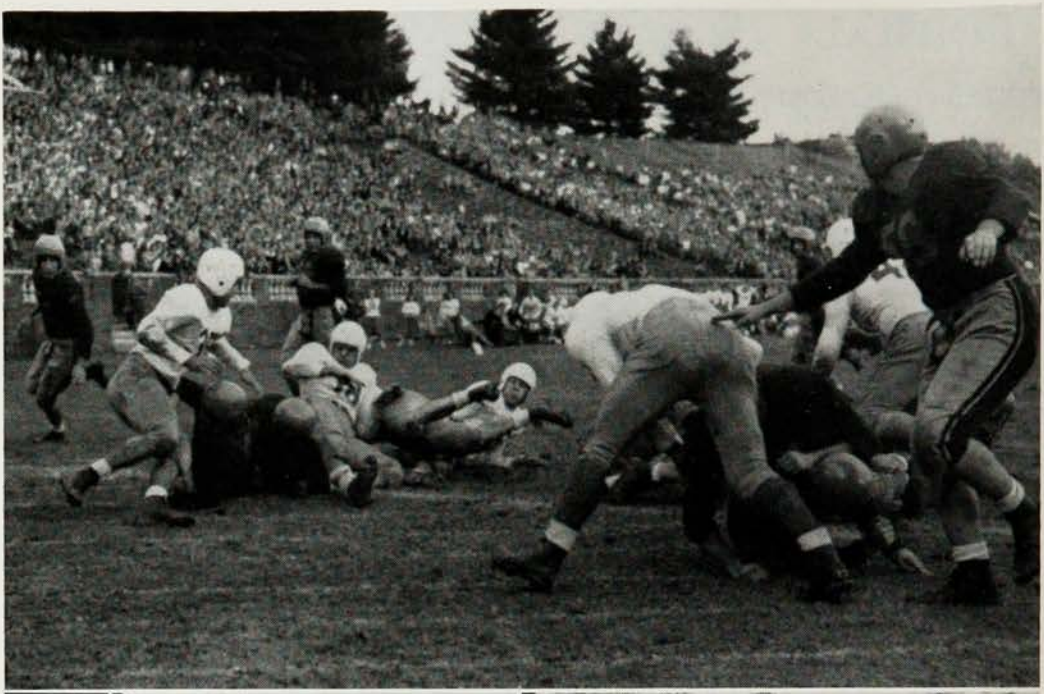

During the Christmas season, the Phi Mu's held one party for Bill Herson's Doll House and another for their members.

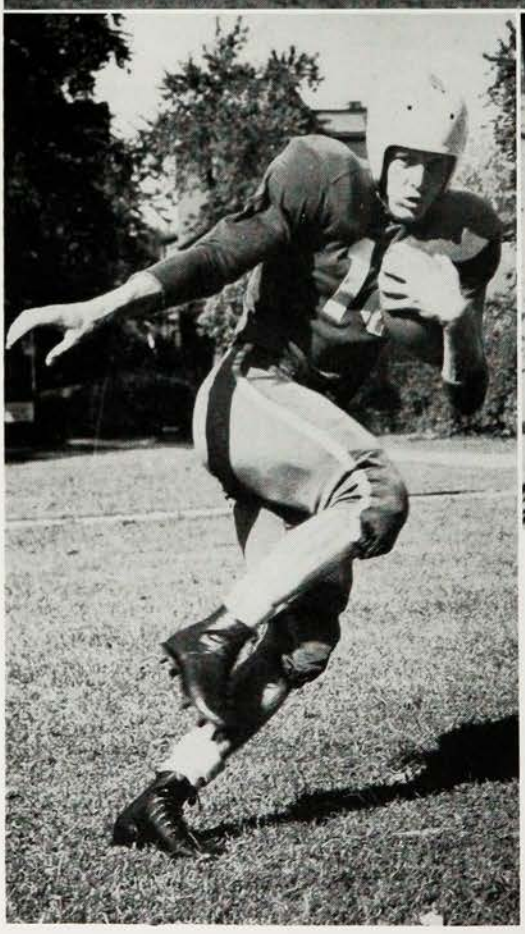

In the field of activities, Jane Shanks and Pat Purcell were honored by being chosen to Delphi, while Jane Shanks was tapped for Mortar Board. In addition, Jane was also selected as one of GWU's representatives for 1949 in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Following exams a tea was held for Belgium's Dr. Elaine Hoebeke, here on a Phi Mu fellowship.

On March 4, a Founder's Day banquet was held in celebration of the fraternity's 97th birthday.

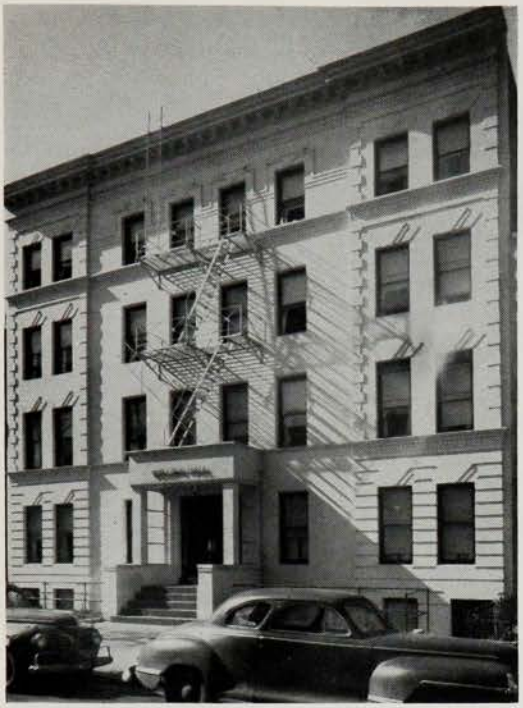

Again leading the gridiron Buffmen, "Handy" Andy Davis smashed through for one of GWU's two touchdowns, as the Colonials downed The Citadel 14-0, in South Carolina.

PLEDGE FORMAL

The highlight of the season for the Pi Beta Phi pledges was the formal dance held in their honor on the tenth of November. On that evening the Washington Club was the scene of gay festivity, as alumnae, actives, and pledges danced and mingled with their guests. The climax of the evening came at eleven o'clock, when each pledge was presented to the gathering under a flowered archway, a circlet of carnations wreathing her hair. Throughout the rest of the year, the Pi Phi's were kept ever busy with the Homecoming float, the Goat Show, the Charity Drive, the Panhellenic Sing, and the May Day booth. Numerous chapter parties rounded out the days, and the Pi Phi's can look back on 1948-1949 as a hectic but wonderful year.

BENDER BUILDING HOUSEWARMING

This year, all the major campus activities were incorporated in one office building on campus. This building is called the Offices of Student Organizations, the Student Union Annex, and, more simply, in the Bender Building.

In December, the office holders in the building swept out the rooms, dressed up in their best, and invited the student body in to look over the rooms, and see what they thought of them. The Hatchet offices, occupying most of the first floor, were awarded a prize for being the most efficient, orderly office. Then the judges and the visitors adjourned to the first floor, where they were served refreshments by the members of Mortar Board.

Frank Simmons, business manager of THE HATCHET, pins the first prize ribbon on THE HATCHET office wall.

During the tour of inspection, Mrs. Mildred Farrar seems to be enjoying the "cleanliness" of The Cherry Tree office.

Newspaper's Wild Year Nears End; 'Hatcheteers' Feel the Same Way

CONSTANT READERS, and unconstant Ones as well, please to accept the deepest Gratitude of your campus news sheet for helping us to report another eventful Year at George Washington's University.

As most of us in Attendance at this institution of higher Learning have come to expect, we have once again experienced a full and varied Season. In retrospect we deem it as having been more than worth the Consternation and cerebral Ache which attend the Two-fold purpose of the Hatchet.

In achieving our double Intent—that of publishing Happenings of general Interest at the college and attempting to promote its Aims and Organizations—we may be found at our Residence at 2127 "G" street during odd and sundry Hours from Wednesdays 'til the early ante-meridian of Tuesdays, when we return from our Printer's to commence another week of Sleuthing, Writing, and Explaining to you, dear Readers, why your Organization was not mentioned in the lead Headline on page One.

Jim Pearce, Jim Reisch, Mary Olga Longley, Frank Simmons.

Then on the Afternoon of Tuesdays a Paper of eight to twenty pages is placed in your hands, constant Readers—and unconstant Ones as Well—for your information and kind Attention. This is done with the full realization that Without your Interest and enthusiastic Participation, we could not approach attainment of our Goals. For the eager Support and enlightened Criticism, fellow Students, we are humbly Appreciative.

Written by The Hatchet.

ARROW LINEN SPORTSMEN

Begun as the brain-child of Al Evry, and with the help of interested businessmen from the Arrow Linen Company, this is the first independent organization to band together for a try at the All University Intramural Trophy. The Arrow boys have won top honors in football, bowling, and swimming, and look for more to come. They hope that the Sportsmen's founding will serve to inspire greater independent competiton in intramural sports.

INTRAMURAL FOOTBALL

In a thrilling last quarter come-back, the battling Arrow Sportsmen, formerly known as Farkas, scored three quick touchdowns and soundly trounced Sigma Chi 18-6, in the intramural touch football play-offs.

The Arrow Sportsmen, winners of the independent league, went through the round robin play without a loss.

In the inter-fraternity league, Sigma Chi, winners of League A, took a close decision from Theta Delta Chi, League B champs. A lone touchdown scored in the second quarter gave the Sigs the necessary 7-0 edge.

In the championship game, paced by Tony Caruso's passing and field generalship, the Arrow Sportsmen converted penalties and interceptions into three fourth-quarter touchdowns.

GEORGE WASHINGTON—13

Fifty-eight long years of frustration finally came to an end! For the first time since 1890, a George Washington grid squad administered defeat to Georgetown. After a scoreless nip and tuck first half, the Colonials scored a TD in the third quarter, and another in the fourth, to win 13-7. End Bill Szanyi's 45-yard touchdown run after blocking a Hoya punt was the deciding factor.

GEORGETOWN—7

In his first year here as head coach, John H. "Bo" Rowland, reputedly second only to North Carolina's Carl Snavely in the single-wing department, has shattered precedent and stamped his name indelibly into the minds and hearts of George Washington students and alumni everywhere. He has made it possible for them, for the first time, to face Georgetown students around Thanksgiving time without flinching.

The Inter-sorority Athletic Board meets twice monthly and is composed of one representative from each sorority on campus. During the year the Board sponsors the following tournaments: tennis, volleyball, bowling, ping-pong, bridge, badminton, archery, and swimming. A record is kept of each tournament victory, and at the end of the year a trophy is awarded to the sorority claiming the largest number of victories.

The purpose of the board is to provide a means of contact between the members of the various sororities and to foster friendly competition among them.

Pat Boyer, winner of this year's inter-sorority badminton championship, scores a point in one of the early elimination games.

Inter-sorority ping-pong is the subject, as Dionne Dalton scores a difficult shot.

DELTA ZETA

The George Washington University chapter of Delta Zeta has done it again! Another year packed with fun, friendship, accomplishments. Our goals, the promotion of good scholarship, the encouragement of activities, the furtherance of social interests, and the attainment of true friendship, have all been realized.

From the pleasure packed Ocean City party to the solemn graduation ceremonies of our seniors, it has been an incomparable experience. Social interests have included hay rides, a watermelon feast, the Christmas Party, a number of exchange dances and a big Spring Formal. Last fall was highlighted by the Harvest Ball Pledge Formal in November which was an imposing introduction to sorority life for the DZ pledges.

UNIVERSITY BAND

Peggy Bowman, Majorette in the band, demonstrates some of her fine technique at a basketball game in the National Guard Armory.

Under the able direction of Leon Brusiloff, the University Band has enjoyed one of its most active years on the campus.

In addition to playing for all the home football games and most of the home basketball games, the Band made a successful trip to the University of Virginia at Charlottesville and furnished music for many pep rallys. It also supplied music for "Faculty Follies," the annual show put on by the faculty of the University, and is scheduled to perform at many other campus functions during the year.

The annual Band Concert will be held in the latter part of May.

The University Band, under the direction of Leon Brusiloff, performs for the benefit of the students in one of their Concerts. These appearances were only a part of the band's many activities this year.

KAPPA KAPPA PSI

Alpha Kappa Chapter of Kappa Kappa Psi, the Honorary Band Fraternity, was founded on this campus in order to promote interest in the University Band by awarding memberships in the Fraternity to outstanding bandsmen. The chapter sponsored the office-warming of the Bender Building last Fall, and has continued to support the band throughout the year. Kappa Kappa Psi presented a beautiful cup to the outstanding bandsman of the 1948-1949 season.

DECEMBER

With bounteous cheer,
Conclude the year.

Poor Richard, 1758.

To ye jolly fools,

I should be very much straiten'd for room if I should even attempt to discover half the elegance of this very merrie month, however I cannot omit the observation that "as charms are nonsense, nonsense is charm." This observation truly brings into mind the night of Dec. 17th at which time many scholars gathered at the campus vendue of theatrics to witness the extreme and clever folly of their usually staid and stern professors. Lisner was also the scene of two other evenings of performance earlier in the month: on Dec. 3rd, the University Players romped through their initial showing of "John Loves Mary," and on December 10th all sorority pledge groups clowned their way through the Pan-Hel Goat Show.

Verily, Poor George said to all Bookish lads, weary at the end of a bookish day, "Up, sluggard, and waste not life; in the grave will be sleeping enuf." The Bookish lads took heed and in reply danc'd and truly play'd 'til the dim wee hours at such successful parties as the EX Sweetheart Dance, the SAE Bal Boheme, the Pi KA Shipwreck Ball and ΦΣK Formal.

"Little strokes fell great oaks" but sadly the score is even with the scales balanced at four wins and four losses in the eight games of basketball which were played during this month against the following institutions: North Carolina State, Washington and Lee, VMI, VPI, Richmond, Quantico, and Virginia.

Amongst the many happenings which departed from scholasticism were the Student Bar Association Dance, The Frostbite Regatta and Ball, and numerous Pledge Formals introducing the Pledge Classes of KKG, DG, EK, ADPi, and ΚΑΘ.

As that rotund gentleman of "Points North" was busily engag'd in the task of checking lists, industrious schoolmen flit'd from one Christmas Party to another, heeding Poor George's adage "Some are studywise, others are partywise" and thus with bounteous cheer prepared to conclude the New Year.

This has been a truly good month with much pudding and since no other author has taken the least notice of me, so that did not my writings contain some solid pudding, the great deficiency of praise would have quite discouraged me. And now because tho' "Silence is not always a sign of wisdom, but babbling is ever a folly," I bring these comments to a close.

PI BETA PHI FACULTY TEA

Every year, Pi Beta Phi sorority holds an "Apple Polishing" tea for the faculty. Not only are the profs treated to some of the best hospitality on the campus, but as they leave, they are each presented with a big red apple to mark the occasion.

Some of the University professors relax at the Pi Phi tea held for them at the sorority rooms. The tea was originated to promote better understanding between the students and their professors.

STUDENT BAR ASSOCIATION DANCE

The Student Bar Association was formed to promote the interests of law students in the legal profession, and to promote the professional and social activities of law students at George Washington University. At their professional functions they present outstanding men in the legal profession as speakers. Another function of the Student Bar Association is the Case Club which affords first- and second-year students an opportunity to argue cases before an appellate court composed of three judges from the law school faculty, practicing attorneys, and third-year students. The Association is also engaged in finding positions for the young lawyers.

The social activities of the group include the annual fall dance at the Wardman Park Hotel held on December second and the Spring Dance held in March.

Since April, 1948, the students of the law school revitalized the activities of the Student Bar Association under the leadership of their officers and the following chairmen: Lars Jensen, Chairman of the Case Club; Ralph and James Miller, Co-Chairmen of the Social Committee; George Wicker, Chairman of the Placement Committee; and Robert Gingell, Chairman of the Constitution and By-Laws Committee.

The Student Quartet: Jack Embrey, Ashby Musselman, Bud Henry, and Fred Anton.

The Faculty Quartet: Professors Merrifield, Farrage, Spaulding and Murdock.

George Washington Law School

The George Washington University Law School, the oldest in the District of Columbia, was established in 1826, discontinued and then reorganized in 1865. Its course of instruction is planned to fit its graduates for the practice of law in any of the states or in foreign countries, the law of which is based on the Anglo-American legal system. It is also designed to prepare students for public service as lawyers in the Federal and State governments. In 1900 the School took part in the organization of the Association of American Law Schools and it has been a member of the Association since that time. The School is approved by the Council of Legal Education of the American Bar Association.

Officers of the Student Bar Association are, L. to R.: Lucy Ann Hapeman, Secretary; Jack Embry, President; and Howard Dawson, Treasurer.

At the Founders' Day Dance

PHI SIGMA SIGMA

Phi Sigma Sigma has enjoyed a busy and successful year. An outstanding social event was the Founders' Day Dinner-Dance at Brook Farm. Guests included the alums, and Dorothy Linowes, a former G.W. Phi Sig, who is now the Southern Division Advisor. Keys were awarded to Nadia Messing and Harryette Schwartz as outstanding members of the sorority.

Other social affairs included a Sadie Hawkins Day party at which prizes were given for the best vegetable corsage made by a girl for her date; an open house for the members of Hillel; a Founders' Day Banquet at Broadmoor along with the Beta Alpha Chapter from Maryland University; and an installation dance for the pledge group.

The Phi Sigma Sigma Pledge Group proudly took the third place in the Goat Show, with their skit "The Farmers' Merry-Go-Round". The skit portrayed the national political situation of the day.

GW - QUANTICO BASKETBALL GAME

Coming through with a winning first game, the GWU Colonial basketball quintet downed the Quantico Marines at Eastern High School in the season's opener.

Coach Otts Zahn was hospitalized so "Jug" Garber, a former Buff and Blue basketball star, took over the helm for the season.

As a nucleus from last year's highly successful squad, coach Garber had returning lettermen in Bill Cantwell, All-Southern Conference forward of last season; John Moffatt, Maynard Haithcock, "Ace" Adler, Lenny Small, Phil McNiff and Dave Shapiro.

The newcomers to the squad included Gene Witkin, the smallest lad on the team and another New York boy; Mel Shrieber, Chet Pietras, Fred Block and Harold Nuttmann.

ΣX SCHOLARSHIP TROPHY AWARDED TO ACACIA

At the I.F.C. Benefit Dance, T. Arthur Smith, president of the Interfraternity Council, presented the Sigma Chi Scholarship Cup to Dick Berryman, of Acacia Fraternity. Each year this cup is awarded to the fraternity showing the most improvement in grades during the past year.

And she's my wife!

On December third and fourth, the University Players skipped lightly through a realistic comedy entitled "John Loves Mary." The play was directed by Dr. Natalie White, and the leading roles of Mary and John were played by Katherine Hall and Eugene Picciano.

"John Loves Mary" is the story of a returning serviceman and the girl he left behind. The reunion would have been rosy had John not returned with an English bride as a favor to a buddy—yes, the situation was complicated, confusing, and funny! The Players' performance, a great success, was the Washington Premiere of the light comedy.

JOHN LOVES MARY

But that caviar is for John!

The Delta Gammas presented another lovely pledge class to University society at their annual Pledge Formal last Fall, at the Kenwood Country Club. Also the group entertained with a Christmas party at which dolls were collected for the Bill Herson Doll House, and an informal get-together in honor of their parents.

During the 1948-1949 season, the D.G.'s won many inter-sorority athletic honors. In January, the sorority won first place in both the tennis and bowling tournaments. Rhoda Jane Downs, who won the tennis tournament, was also the inter-collegiate tennis champion of Washington, D. C., during 1948.

When the gals of Alpha Delta Pi returned to school last Fall, their newly redecorated rooms awaited them . . . it wasn't a surprise though, because the girls had spent a busy summer working on this project. The first social of the year was an open house in the rooms for all of the Fraternities on campus. It was a very successful event. In December, the chapter sponsored a Children's Party, as well as a social in honor of their mothers. The remainder of the year was as busy as the beginning, for the ADPi's celebrated their Founder's Day, attended the Panhel Prom, and took part in the Panhel Sing.

Officially recognized as a permanent campus organization this Fall, the Sailing Club, after a year's trial, has proved one of the most active and popular groups at George Washington. Open to any student able to pass a swimming test, the novice, through regularly held training classes, may eventually qualify as a "skipper" and be eligible to race in the various regattas.

The highlight of the sailing season is the annual Frostbite Regatta, held this year on December 4th and 5th. Aside from the racing challenge provided by the seven competing schools, a queen contest was sponsored, and the week end was climaxed by the Frostbite Ball, held at the Bethesda Country Club.

On December 10th, all the sorority pledge groups on campus presented their skits in the annual Pan-Hellenic Goat Show. The pledges of Kappa Kappa Gamma won first place with their original skit, "Which Came First, the Rooster or the Booster?" which compared life on the farm with that at the University. Kappa Alpha Theta took second place with their "Cindy Lou" while Phi Sigma Sigma came in third with a political skit entitled "Farmer's Merry-go-round."

Judges for the Goat Show were Miss Agnes DeLano, Carr B. Lavell and Edward P. Mangum. Doctor John Latimer of the Classical Languages Department acted as Master of Ceremonies.

The Junior Panhellenic Council consists of one representative from each sorority pledge class on campus. Working with the Senior Panhellenic Association, the council endeavors to obtain and to maintain a high social standard and to form a unity between the sorority pledge classes.

Among the activities sponsored during the year was the Interfraternity dance on the eighth of January, and the Junior Panhel Goat Show on December tenth. The Goat Show is an annual project of the council; this year the winning cup for the best performance was awarded to the pledge class of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

The Junior Panhellenic Council is made up of one representative from the pledge class of each sorority.

Cheerleaders Betty Talley and Ginny Teeter pose with the youngest member of the football team at the Georgetown game. This young fellow and the rest of the team beat Georgetown 13-6.

One of the bright spots of Colonial football and basketball games is the ever effervescent Cheerleading squad. Led by co-captains Tom Pence and Betty Talley, the present squad of fifteen has cheered at all games and even entertained with half-time marching stunts. About fifty applicants were auditioned last fall, the ten girls and five boys now making up the squad having been chosen by a jury of campus leaders. Appearance, voice, personality, and ability to execute the cheers were the major points considered by the judges in making the selections. With weekly practices, the squad continues to improve their routines and work up new cheers, aiming at better and better student enthusiasm.

CHEER-LEADERS

Not letting the teams down, the entire cheerleading squad turns out to lead the students in Yea Buff's and No. 16's at one of the basketball games.

Head cheerleaders Tom Pence and Betty Talley confer at a rehearsal before the Homecoming Game.

SIGMA KAPPA PLEDGE FORMAL

On December fourth, the group presented their pledge class at a gala Pledge Formal at the Carlton Hotel.

The year 1948 turned out to be another successful one for the Sigma Kappas as many of the girls received individual honors: three members, Mary Olga Longley, Ann Brandenburger, and Ann Arnold, were elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities; Eileen Dalton, Marian Baker, and Mary Ann Foreman are members of Tassels, while Mary Olga Longley was tapped for Mortar Board and received a bid to Phi Beta Kappa in the Spring of 1948. Earlier in the year, Sigma Kappa member Lois Anne Brackett brought honor to the sorority by being chosen the Homecoming Queen of 1948.

BAL BOHEME

The gayest event in the SAE social calendar is the annual Bal Boheme, a costume party beyond description. From Eskimos to Hottentots, from Hindus to Egyptians, all members of the human race, and a few sub-human species, too, we fear, flock to the Bal. And somehow the SAEs manage to recover and remain active throughout the rest of the year.

A spring formal highlights the second semester, and the house is seldom quiet on a Saturday night.

Aside from their party-giving talents, the SAEs also furnish the campus with many of its leading lights. Don Sparks is advertising manager of The HATCHET, while John Donaldson takes care of the news. Pete Smith handles publicity for the Student Council, and is also publicity director of Colonial Boosters, as well as being social chairman of Gate and Key. John Douglas served as co-director of the Homecoming Committee, and one must not forget Bill Spangler, well-known back on the football squad.

ALPHA CHAPTER OF PHI PI EPSILON, Foreign Service fraternity for women, was founded at the University in 1931 in order to give the women foreign service students encouragement and further interest in international affairs and related subjects.

Since its inception on campus, Phi Pi Epsilon has made great strides along this line. In cooperation with Delta Phi Epsilon, the organization has sponsored a variety of activities of an informative nature concerning events and developments in current foreign service, and has endeavored to keep its members informed of the opportunities for women in foreign service.

Nineteen women were pledged by the chapter this year from the fields of foreign affairs, economics, political science, and law.

ETA CHAPTER OF DELTA PHI EPSILON, national professional foreign service fraternity, is composed of men who are interested in international affairs and who anticipate service overseas as representatives of our nation.

The aims of the fraternity are well summed up in the duty of each active member to "strive for the highest attainment possible in our culture and scholarship" and in the toast: "To our absent brothers! May we ne'er forget each other, nor our friendship cease to grow."

Eta Chapter schedules a well-rounded program of professional and social meetings, often in conjunction with Phi Pi Epsilon, the women's counterpart. Of special professional value is the frequent presentation of prominent authorities in discussions of matters of national and international interest.

SHIPWRECK BALL

The traditional Shipwreck Ball highlights the social calendar for the brothers of Pi Kappa Alpha. It is open to all of the University and guests must come as South Sea islanders or shipwreck survivors. The costumes and combinations which appear are weird to behold.

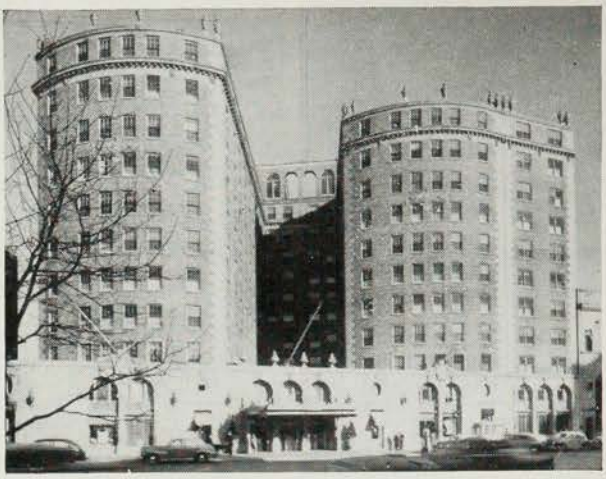

The Pi K A's were rescued from the shipwreck, however, and managed to continue an active social life for the rest of the year. The Dream Girl Dance, held on April second at the Wardman Park Hotel, was the major event of the Spring semester. At that time, Anne Blair was named 1949 Dream Girl of Pi K A.

The Pi K A's also found time to widely participate in campus activities. Most outstanding of the brothers are Jim Reisch, Hatchet Editor; Bill Warner, President, Ralph Louk, Vice President, and Bill Lynch, Comptroller of the Student Council.

HOME ECONOMICS KITCHEN PARTY

The Home Economics Club is a social organization designed to bring together the members of the Home Economics classes in a social way, and to give practical application for projects learned in classes. The club fosters in the students an awareness of the scope and offerings in contemporary home economics fields.

During Orientation Week, interested men on campus can volunteer for the Official Tasters' Club. Described by some as a pleasant experience, the Official Tasters' Supper Party is one of the big projects of the year.

FACULTY FOLLIES

George and Jenny.

On the 17th of December, the faculty of the University successfully romped through another performance of their annual "Faculty Follies". This year the script, written by Professor James M. Coberly, was a humorous history of the University—past, present, and future. Dean Elmer Louis Kayser was cast in the leading part as George Washington; Bruce D. Greenshields and James J. Kerley collaborated as George's horse, Jenny; and Miss Ruth Atwell played the part of Martha Washington in the absence of Miss Virginia Kirkbride, who was ill at the time of the performance.

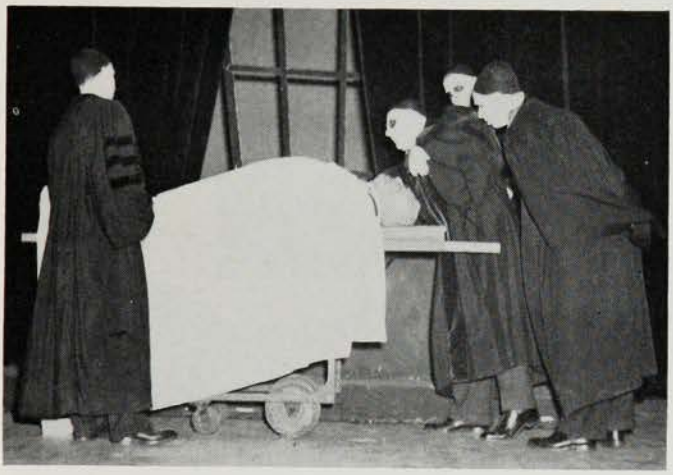

This year the proceeds from the Faculty Follies were donated to the Women's Recreation Fund.

The pledges themselves made a major contribution to chapter honors by placing second in the Goat Show, annual intersorority competition. Through the year, the Thetas were ever active in all phases of campus life, and are especially proud of Outstanding Sophomore Woman Sally Reifsnyder, Tassels Jean Edgar, Ann Maury, and Ann Sheppard, and Phi Sigma Kappa Moonlight Girl Marcia Roessing.

A little over a month later, the group appeared in their annual Christmas Concert, and sang the "Christ Child Cantata." The Spring Concert, held on April twenty-ninth marked the twenty-fifth anniversary of Doctor Harmon's leadership of University choral groups. A reception honoring the conductor was held in the lobby of the auditorium immediately after this performance.

Founded one year before the Civil War began, Epsilon Chapter of Sigma Chi has the distinction of being the fraternity at GWU with the longest number of years of active service.

Leading the fraternities athletically through the fall semester, the Sigs captured the Inter-Fraternity football title, took a third in Intramural swimming, and second places in Intramural bowling and ping pong. At the beginning of school this fall 9 newly acquired cups were in the G Streeters' trophy case. They were Inter-Fraternity and Intramural softball cups, Inter-Fraternity and Intramural golf cups, Inter-Fraternity tennis cup, Intramural fencing cup, Inter-Fraternity sports achievement trophy, Cherry Tree subscription drive trophy and the first Annual Greek Week Crew Race award.

By winning the Sigma Chi Eastern Province Scholarship award for the 1947-48 school year, the Epsilon Sigs added another scholastic achievement to their record.

Following the successful Pirates Ball and Sweetheart Dances in the fall semester, the Sigs presented their Greenwich Village Ball to the fraternity and sorority students in March. Climaxing the social year was the Spring Formal.

COLONIAL FORENSIC SOCIETY

Ann Pasternack and Elaine Langerman are admiring an intercollegiate debating trophy held by Chuck Lilien.

The Colonial Forensic Society was formed with the aim and purpose of providing the students at George Washington University with practical training in debate and other forensic skills.

It is the aim of this club to encourage intramural and intercollegiate participation in forensics by members of this organization and the student body in general.

Members of the debating team have attended several tournaments this year, apart from playing host to such schools as Georgetown, the University of Virginia, University of Pennsylvania, Princeton, Wake Forest, Randolph Macon, and others. The highlights of the year were winning first place in the University of Virginia's Tournament in February, and being awarded the Freely Trophy for winning first place in the Boston University Tournament.

Officers for the year were Herbert Sherwin, President, who succeeded Robert Tollefson in February; Ann Pasternack, Vice President; Elaine Langerman, Secretary; and Jordan Himelfarb, Treasurer.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

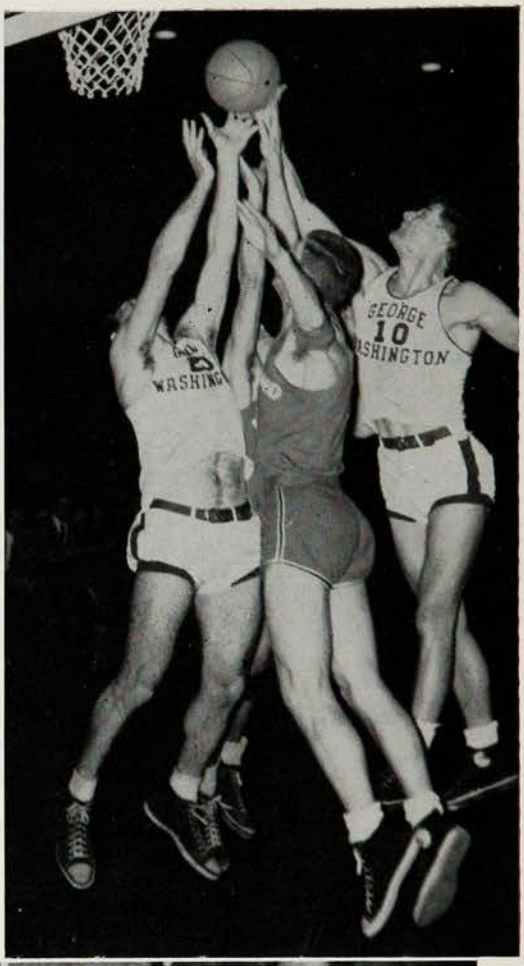

After what was generally agreed upon as a successful football season the Colonials quietly plunged into their 1948-49 basketball schedule with high hopes and prospects, although the absence of head coach Otts Zahn seemed to dim their chances slightly.

After their opening win against Quantico, the local five began their "off and on" winning streak which continued through the Christmas holidays.

Early in the season the members of last year's squad and the newcomers began to show their comparative merits.

As it later developed Coach "Jug" Garber formed a fast working starting five from among the newcomers and last year's hold-overs.

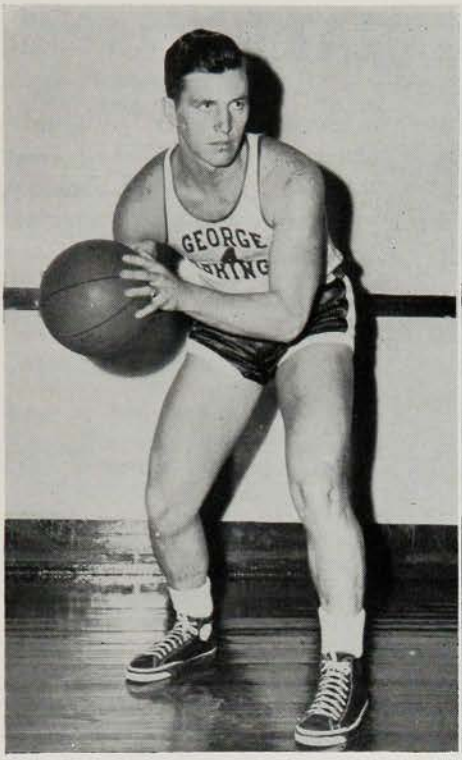

Called upon for regular service were Johnny Moffatt, Maynard Haithcock, Len Small, "Ace" Adler and Gene Witkin.

DRAPER HALL

Draper Hall, the first "G.I." college dormitory to be constructed in the Washington area by the Federal Public Housing Authority, is named in honor of First Lt. Courtney Rogers Draper, an alumnus of the University who was killed aboard a Japanese transport sunk by American Forces in the China Sea while evacuating prisoners of war from the Philippines during the closing days of the Pacific campaign.

A member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity, Lt. Draper attended the University of Utah before coming to G.W., where he received the Bachelor of Laws degree in 1937 while holding a commission as second lieutenant in the Officers Reserve Corps.

Although instructed as an artillery officer, Lt. Draper was assigned as assistant adjutant at the Presidio in San Francisco upon entering active duty in July, 1941. In August he was sent to the Philippines, where he was attached to the Air Force, and was at Clark Field at the outbreak of hostilities with Japan.

Captured at Mindanao, where he was in charge of defending forces, Lt. Draper had rejected an opportunity to escape and had remained behind to aid in the evacuating of nurses and other Air Force personnel. He learned the Japanese language and served as prisoners' liaison officer at Mindanao until 1943.

The Japanese transferred him from Mindanao to Cabanatuan, and then to Bilibid. Increasing pressure from the Americans forced enemy evacuation of the Philippines; the prisoner of war ship carrying Lt. Draper to Japan was sunk in December 1944. He was awarded the Purple Heart posthumously in August 1945, and a tribute was offered to his memory at the last annual meeting of the Utah Bar Association, with which he had previously been affiliated while he practiced law in Salt Lake City.

The decision to name the dormitory at 22nd and G Streets, N.W., Draper Hall came after the veterans determined by popular vote to honor an alumnus of the University who lost his life during the war.

The noise and confusion usually prevalent in Staughton Hall suddenly ceased one evening a few days before Christmas. The Christmas season was celebrated in Strong Hall by a gay party, arranged by the members of the Dormitory Council. Aside from the dorm residents, the party was attended by twelve foreign students. Spice tea and hot gingerbread was served, and Pat Peterson led the group in singing Christmas carols. After Mazeppa King had told a traditional Christmas story, the girls gathered around the tree and drew gifts from a heavily-laden grab bag. The whole evening was imbued with Christmas gaiety, and the party was the highlight of the dormitory social season.

NEWMAN CLUB CHRISTMAS PARTY

Newman Club activities are highlighted by their Christmas party, held this year for the poor children of the Immaculate Conception Parish on the last Saturday before Christmas.

Aiming to foster spiritual, intellectual, and social activities for Catholic students, the club meets weekly at Newman House where, aside from regular business meetings and lectures, various social functions are planned. The House also offers such facilities as television, a piano, and a record player to members.

Aside from the Christmas party, major events in the Newman Club year include the initiation-receptions each semester, the Anniversary Tea, and the All-University Spring Formal.

The University Newman Club celebrates the first anniversary of the opening of the Newman Club House, 714 N Street N. W. Miss Marjorie Reynolds, club president, is seen cutting cake while officers and party committee look on.

CHRISTMAS FOR ORPHANS

Gate and Key is an honorary fraternity composed of fraternity men who have given outstanding service to their respective organizations, to the entire fraternity system, and to the University. Its purpose is to strengthen inter-fraternal relations by means of social activities, and to assist the Inter-Fraternity Council in the sponsorship of charitable undertakings. An outstanding event of the year was the Christmas party given in conjunction with the IFC for orphans in the National Receiving Home.

ALPHA CHI SIGMA

Alpha Chi Sigma, national professional chemistry fraternity, aims to advance chemistry as a science and as a profession. It also makes possible closer association among chemists and assists their members to succeed in their fields. JANUARY

Drink water, put the money in your pocket,
And leave the dry-bellyache in the punch-bowl.

Poor Richard, 1734.

Courteous Reader,

"What signifies knowing the names if you know not the nature of things?" . . . Poor George refuses to observe the dull rules of critics in undertaking to discuss the nature of the four concerts presented during January by the Air Force Concert Orchestra in Lisner Auditorium and being sponsor'd by our own noble Student Council. The orchestra members truly obey'd George's advice: "Hide not your talents, they for use were made: What's a sundial in the shade?" Verily, their haunting melodies made a deep impression on the scholarly music lovers present at these delightful performances.

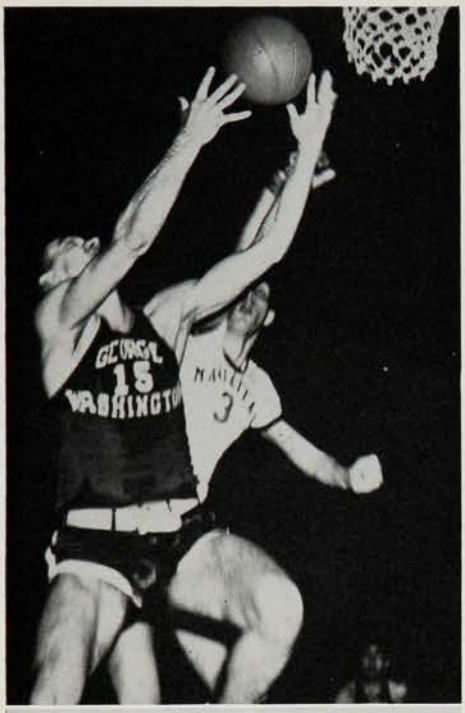

Methinks that one of the most exciting events of this month was the game of basketball between the Colonials and the Manhattan team, as it was the center of a most insidious plot containing the treacherous element of bribery. The three dishonest Knaves involv'd might have succeeded in their foul business had they not overlook'd what Poor George had truly said, "Presumption first blindes a man, then sets him running," but thereby they failed because publick-spirited Shapiro prov'd their "presumption oh so blinde"! The Colonials also play'd three other games this month with North Carolina State, V.M.I., and Georgetown but these truly had none of the sauce of the Manhattan game.

"Enjoy the present hour," George says, and this many scholars did at the two major social events before the time for olde-fashioned pre-exam cramming. These were the KA Tacky Ball and the Theta Delta Chi Bowery Ball, both being reported as very interesting partees.

On the twentieth of January, a number of students participated in the Inauguration Day Parade. The University float represented the various schools within the institution and was truly an impressive structure. In connection with the Inaugural festivities, Sigma Nu Fraternity entertained their Congressional members with a reception. Also during this month the Women's Recreation Association had a banquet, as did TKE in honor of their Founder's Day.

A week or so before exams, a scholar remark'd in composition class and truly so, "Clearly spoken, Miss Fogg, you explain English by Greek!" Other scholars found once more that, as Poor George says, "You may Delay, but Time will not" . . . yes, the time for those dread'd finals had approach'd almost, say some, without warning. Yet scholars lived through the week, and at the end Poor George observ'd that "after crosses and losses, scholars grow humbler and wiser."

DAVE SHAPIRO AIDS N.Y. D.A. IN ROUNDING UP BRIBE GANG

G.W.U. Basketball Captain Becomes Hometown Hero

Dave Shapiro, playing his last year as a member of the George Washington University basketball squad, rose from the ranks of the obscure and became a nation-wide figure over-night.

GWU's co-captain was instrumental in the round-up of a ring of four New York gangsters who had approached him during the summer of 1948, hoping that he would throw a basketball game during the 1948-49 season.

Shapiro successfully stalled these men until he was able to contact the New York D.A.'s office and inform him of the proposition which had been set before him. The result of this meeting eventually led to the capture of these four men on the evening of the George Washington-Manhattan game which was held in Madison Square Garden.

Playing under a tremendous amount of tension, Shapiro saw action during a great part of this upset victory for the Colonials and, as was generally agreed, played one of the best games of his collegiate career.

In addition to making headlines throughout the country, Dave Shapiro was featured in TIME magazine and on several radio programs.

A law student at this University, Shapiro is assured of a job on graduation from many grateful citizens of New York City.

KAYSER VS. KYSER

On January third, Dean Elmer Louis Kayser appeared on Kay Kyser's College of Fun and Knowledge and is said to have "outhumored" radio's beloved Doctor of foolishness. Dean Kayser's answers to Dean Kyser's questions provoked such laughter from the audience that the ol' dean complained that two Kaysers were too many on one program.

"Adventure in Music"

Under the sponsorship of the Colonial Program Series, the United States Air Force Band presented to the University this year a series of eight one-hour concerts in Lisner Auditorium.

General Ulysses S. Grant III, Vice President, introduced the series at its beginning. Speaking for the Administration, General Grant welcomed the orchestra to the University and the audience to the concert.

Chet McCall, Program-Activity Director for the Student Council, was instrumental in obtaining and managing the appearance of the orchestra. The series of concerts, under the baton of Lt. Col. George S. Howard, was called "Adventures in Music," and was narrated by John Ball, local music critic and commentator. The programs were broadcast over a national hook-up, the Washington outlet being WASH-FM.

In addition to the orchestra, the series also featured the Air Force Glee Club, better known as "The Singing Sergeants." The Glee Club was under the direction of Mr. Robert L. Landers.

Archery Champion Mariana Amram

Of the greatest significance this year has been the trend for more clubs in the field of women's sports. The hockey club, under the enthusiastic guidance of Lynn Mitchell, hockey manager, and Miss Katy Prentiss, faculty advisor, brought an added thrill to the game as club members starred time after time in games with neighboring colleges.

The fall award banquet, which was held at the Elks Club, featured Dorothy Whitley, who spoke on her trip to the 1948 Olympics.

Included in the W. R. A. activities were numerous inter-class sports, which found freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior women competing against each other in basketball and hockey.

Chi Deuteron Charge of the Theta Delta Chi Fraternity is well representing Theta Delta Chi on the G.W.U. campus in the beginning of the Fraternity's second century. Holding true to the purpose of their Fraternity, Theta Delta Chi has striven to achieve scholastic and social improvement in both curricula and extra-curricula activities.

Beyond maintaining a scholastic average much higher than the University All Men's Average, the Oaky Doakes use their G-Street headquarters to great advantage for weekend parties, open houses and exchange dances. Athletic prowess is not lacking either, as the Oaky Doakes are strong contenders in every intramural sport.

Events highlighting the year include the Bowery Ball, a Charge trip to the Brother Charge at the University of Virginia for the G.W.-Va. football game and the Sweetheart Dance.

INAUGURAL FLOAT

Last January 20th, Inauguration Day, The George Washington University set a precedent by being the first university in the nation to be represented in an Inaugural Parade. Sponsored by The HATCHET, the float was prepared by every major campus group. Plans for the float were drawn by capable Bob Dentz, while construction was carried out by student volunteers.

The theme of the float was "George Washington University prepares today's students as tomorrow's leaders." Four sections were cut through the float and contained symbolic scenes depicting the efforts of the four major schools of the University—Law, Medicine, Government, and Engineering.

Purely a student project from conception to completion, the float was financed by the University. Frank Simmons acted as financial manager of the advisory committee. Bob Klein of Independent Students Association was personnel manager, and Jack Voneiff of Omicron Delta Kappa handled special arrangements.

Socially minded members of the Junior Class got together on Inauguration Eve for an informal lumberjack party in the Meadowbrook Cabin at the Rollingwood Recreation Center in Rock Creek Park, Maryland.

Music for the gathering was provided by numerous nationally known bands by way of the record collection of one of the University fraternities. Refreshments were sold and potato chips and pretzels were provided from the class treasury.

This dance was notably a success because, for the first time in many years, a slight profit was realized. Funds to put on the affair were loaned to the Junior Class by the Student Council and returned after the get-together.

Later in the year, the Junior and Senior Classes are planning to sponsor a joint formal dance in one of the Washington hotels.

The purpose of Tau Kappa Epsilon is to provide a well-rounded program of scholarship and social life for the betterment of the individual and the organization in cooperation with our Alma Mater. In order to further this aim, TKE sponsors a scholarship drive with individual awards to high-ranking scholars.

The social events of the year included a gala Christmas party with Acacia Fraternity; a Stag Founders Day Banquet in Harrisburg, Pa., with nearby chapters of TKE; exchange dances; and various theme parties culminating in the Teke event of the year, the Triangle Ball, in May.

According to the latest reports, Alpha Phi of TKE is rapidly becoming noted for its huge number of married and pinned men. However, the new group of pledges will provide new blood for the organization.

Tekes, inspired by mistletoe and holly, give their dates egg-nog and affection.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

Members of Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority and their dates at the ZTA pledge formal. The dance, held at the George Mason Hotel in Alexandria, was the highlight of a successful year for the sorority.

A new radio-phonograph and a redecorated apartment, presented by their Washington alumnae, greeted the Zetas upon their return to school in the Fall, and helped to perk up their spirits during the weary hours of rush week. Fall was filled with open houses, exchange dances, and midterms. On Founders Day, the Washington Zetas were visited by their National President, Miss Helen Harrison.

Just before the Christmas holidays, the alumnae gave a party for the actives, and during the holidays the chapter met for bridge and delicious food at the home of Eileen Cummings, where they learned of Ruth Ann Ramsdell's engagement and of Betty Ann Beall's appointment as publicity chairman of the Senior Class.

After a gala Pledge Formal in January, the Zetas settled down to serious study for the approaching finals. In the Spring, activities included a Mother's Day tea, and an initiation and awards banquet.

FEBRUARY

If Jack's in love,
He's no Judge of Jill's Beauty.

Poor Richard, 1748.

February 1949

Courteous Reader,

Once again, a new semester, and indeed, scholars started out anew realizing that as Poor George truly says, "the doors of Wisdom are never shut." This has been truly a month of sports and speeches involving two contests of speech: the Colonial Forensic Extemporaneous contest, and the annual invitation debate at Boston University. Also there being played six games of basketball by the Colonials with Navy, South Carolina, Duke, North Carolina, Georgetown, and Maryland.

The Engineers on campus forgot their slide rules and T-squares temporarily to entertain the campus with one of the most outstanding Balls of the season; even the good professors reportedly had a jolly time. Also, during February, scholars danced and truly laughed at such affairs as the Vet Club Meet Ball, Sigma Phi Epsilon's Heart Ball, and the Sophomore Benefit Dance for the CHERRY TREE.

On February 16, the University Radio Workshop presented its second broadcast of the year over station WCFM, the title of the script being "A Night in Plainville."

Six hundred and forty-six of our most diligent scholars gathered in Lisner Auditorium on February 22nd to receive degrees at the University's annual winter convocation. Many Campus dignitaries were truly present for this happy occasion. "Big Sis" and Mortar Board gave a joint tea earlier in the month honoring new women students as did the Martha Washington Club on February ninth.

I may delay, but time will not—adieu—'tis nearly March. It really crept upon us.

DELTA TAU DELTA INITIATION DANCE

"Delta Tau Delta was established more than eighty years ago by men who felt a need to enrich college life through the companionship of congenial friends, not only because it is instinctive with men to want to associate with those whom they like, but because men develop best in the midst of friends and stimulating surroundings." Here on campus, the members of Gamma Eta Chapter pursue an always fast-moving, well-rounded program of studying, social life, and activity participation. On the social calendar, the Alumni Dance and the Christmas Dance highlighted the fall semester, while springtime gaiety was taken care of by the Initiation Dance and the Spring Formal. Numerous Exchanges kept things from getting dull in between. Acquisition of a new house was the major project of the year, but individual Delts managed to distinguish themselves in various phases of campus activities. Charlie Chrichton, I.F.C. Secretary, was a delegate to the N.I.F.C. in New York; Don Myrick was President of the World Government Seminar, and George Bennsky was Layout Editor of the CHERRY TREE.

ENGINEERS' BALL

On February 11th, engineering students, their dates, and the faculty were entertained at the eighteenth annual Engineers' Ball. The dance was held in the Hall of Nations Ballroom of the Washington Hotel, and the music was furnished by the Alaskan Orchestra. President Cloyd H. Marvin, Dean Frederick N. Feiker, and members of the engineering faculty welcomed the guests upon their arrival, and later joined the students for an evening of dancing under dimmed lights.

THE ENGINEERS' COUNCIL

The Engineers' Council is an elected group of representatives from all the engineering organizations on campus which determines the policies of the extracurricular activities carried on by the Engineers.

Some of the Council's more active functions this year have been the establishment of the Engineers' Library for the Student Union Building, the sponsorship of the annual Christmas Tree-lighting, and the All-University Sing, plus various dances, balls, and Engineers' mixers.

SIGMA TAU

Sigma Tau is an honorary fraternity for outstanding engineering students. Not only must a student be approved by the three faculty members, but he must be in the upper third of his class, have social and professional attainment, and have evidences of outstanding qualities of leadership.

One of the functions of the society is the free tutoring service that they offer to any engineering student in need of it. Further, they present a medal to the engineering freshman who has the highest average for his first year in the University. They also hold two banquets for their members each year.

Theta Tau at G. W. has probably had the most successful year in the history of Gamma Beta chapter. Three initiations have been held: two in the fall semester and one in the spring. The first of these in October commemorated the national founding of Theta Tau. Highlighting the fall semester was a football game and oyster fry given by the pledges at Meadowbrook in November.

KAPPA SIGMA

Chasing the B.M.O.C.

The Fall of 1948 found Kappa Sigma with a shortage of mantle space to hold the trophies they had gathered the preceding year. Prominent among these was the All Intramural Achievement Trophy, awarded to Doug Thoreson as the outstanding intramural athlete of the year.

Any of the guests of Kappa Sigma will verify that the group lives up to its title of "Social Fraternity": exchange parties, numerous planned and impromptu functions highlighted the Fall. Later in the year an even greater scale of social activity was highlighted by such events as the formal Valentine Dance, a Costume Ball, and a lavish Spring Formal.

The other, pictured above, was "In Henry's Backyard."

Phi Delta Gamma is a fraternity for graduate women. It is national in scope, having 14 active chapters and three alumnae chapters. Beta Chapter was the host to the National Convention and the celebration of the Silver Jubilee, held in Washington, D. C., in June, 1948.

The aims of the organization are to further the status of graduate women professionally and socially, and to raise the standard of graduate study as far as possible. Business and cultural meetings are held once a month, with a program planned in advance. During the current year, programs have been built around internal problems and Pan-American Relations.

Vera L. Mowry, president of the local Beta Chapter, is the editor of the fraternity's national JOURNAL. It is a professional magazine with articles written by members on various subjects of interest to graduate women.

The national secretary, Grace Wilson, is also a member of Beta.

Membership is from many different professions, so this arrangement obviates provincialism.

Each fall the chapter holds a tea for all graduate women and for faculty members of The George Washington University. It also has a series of rush functions terminating in initiation in February of each year.

Sigma Phi Epsilon's Heart Ball, which was held on the twenty-fifth of February, was the Fraternity's major social event of the year.

The purpose of the Fraternity is the creation and perpetuation of friendship among its members; participation in campus activities; and the development and maintenance of a high moral character among members. On October 9, 1949, the chapter will have completed forty years on campus as a part of a national fraternity, having received its charter in 1909.

THE STUDENT BOOK EXCHANGE

The purpose of the Student Book Exchange, which is located at 814 21st St., is to enable students to either obtain used text books or to sell the books which they no longer need. The Exchange, a growing concern, is planning even larger expansion so that it may become an integral part of college life.

VETERANS' CLUB MEETBALL

The Student Veterans started the year early in the Spring Semester by holding a dance at the Potomac Boat Club.

Called the "Meetball," the dance should be put down as a successful affair. After a slow start (due to the frigidity of the club itself) the place warmed up, and the couples were soon wining, dining, and dancing the night away.

Honors for the affair went to Johnny Johnson, president of the Club. The Meetball was Johnny's idea, and, with the help of several of his fellow club-members, the dance was made a howling success.

The Student Veterans' Club was started by three returned veterans in July of 1943. Thought to be the oldest organization composed of World War II vets, it dedicated itself to the rehabilitation of the returning servicemen.

Officers of the club are: President, Johnny Johnson; Vice-President, Virginia Sherrard; Secretary, Phyllis Shattuck; Treasurer, James Stone, and Sergeant-at-Arms, Harold Cooper.

PI BETA PHI INITIATION BANQUET

On February 13th, Pi Beta Phi initiated fourteen breathless pledges. After the ceremony, the entire chapter celebrated the occasion with a formal banquet at the Burlington Hotel. Aside from delicious food, the program included piano recitals by new initiates Gloria Binzel and Nancy Sullivan, presentation of chapter awards, and installation of the new officers. Marjorie Johnson was awarded the traditional outstanding initiates' ring, while Joanne Hyde received the bracelet annually worn by the freshman honor student. The evening was brought to a pleasant close by the singing of fraternity songs.

Adeline Andrews receives the active scholarship improvement award from Scholarship Chairman Peggy Stevens.

An astounded Margie Johnson goes up to receive the outstanding initiates' ring.

INDEPENDENT STUDENTS ASSOCIATION BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR GEORGE

Founded in the Fall of 1947, I.S.A. has become the only recognized organization of independents on campus. This year it began its diversified social program with an Open House for all campus independents, and since then has had monthly social affairs, as well as bi-weekly meetings. In addition, I.S.A. supports and encourages all students to support University functions and projects.

I.S.A. is proud of the fact that its membership has included a large number of campus leaders.

MARCH

Some are weatherwise,
Some are otherwise.

Poor Richard, 1735.

March 1949

Courteous Reader,

This has truly been a month of many a mischievous breeze, but tho' the "March Wind doth Blow on," the scholarly lads on campus spent very little time chasing hats, for indeed, few wear hats, and besides, all have been too occupied with other matters, to waste time pursuing errant chapeaus.

On the fourth of this month, the member fraternities of I.F.C. began their gala celebration of Greek Week; the festivities being conclud'd on the evening of the 10th at the I.F.C. Prom. The lads belonging to I.F.C. will be truly pleas'd with Poor George's observation that their undertaking was a commendable success.

Social Butterflies are always flitting about, and scholars are still a part of this gay phylum. Other than the I.F.C. celebration, March has not been a busy social month; however our social butterflies did attend such events as the student Bar Association Dance, The Phi Alpha-Phi Sigma Sigma "Rose Ball," The Hillel "Purim Ball," The Phi Sigma Kappa "Carnation Ball," and the Home Economics Club Social. On March third Delta Tau Delta celebrated their Founder's Day at a banquet, and while these jolly gents were enjoying their feast, our Colonials were in Durham, North Carolina, where they prov'd gallant gentlemen to be sure, in the Southern Conference Basketball tournament—'twas a good game, lads!

The local vendue of theatrics hath enjoy'd considerable business in March, due to the presentation of several programmes which the publick found suitable to their liking. The first of these, being the Freshman Follies, a delightful bit of nonsense on the evening of the fifth. On March eleventh and twelfth, the University Players present'd "The Inspector General," a comedy by Nickolai Gogol, while on the 25th, the United States Air Force Concert Orchestra and the young ladies of the University Glee Club collaborated in a presentation of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Mikado," a most successful event. Also during this "Drama-fill'd" month, the Dance Production Group held a Dance Concert shortly after the "Iydes"; Pan-Hel presented its annual sing March 23rd, and on the 30th I.F.C. made the last curtain call during March with the I.F.C. Sing.

The chill March wind still doth blow, pardon me, while I scurry home for a spot of hot tea.

THE FROSH PRESENT:

FRESHMAN FOLLIES!

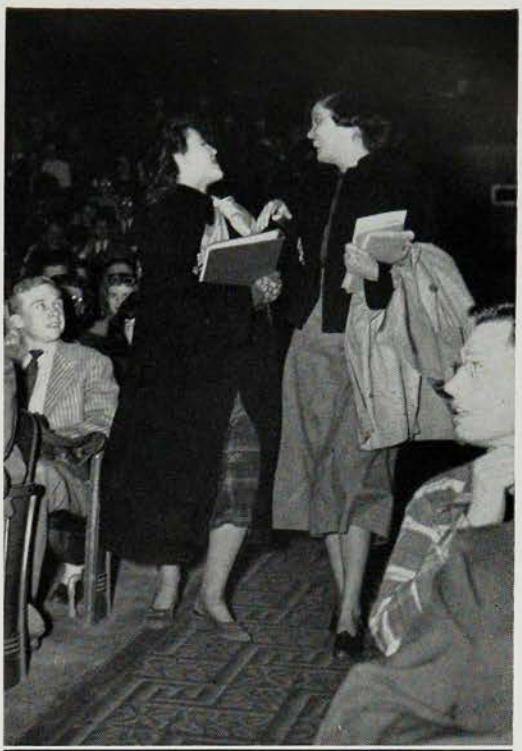

"What a joint . . . dis place is fit fer da boids!" Lisner Auditorium rang with similar sparkling and profound statements that night the Freshmen took over. The show was pure and unadulterated Fresh . . . pardon, Frosh, and a whopping job they did. Rather than bust useful blood vessels over a theme for the performance, the directors lifted the auditions out of Columbian House and held them on the stage; after all, an audience is incidental when everybody else is having so much fun!

The curtain was ripped aside for the overture in dedication to the sweet old class of '49; they carried said class off in a coffin. In contrast, the newly born class of '52 shot onto the stage in the person of Pete Marshall . . . in diapers. That we'll never forget.

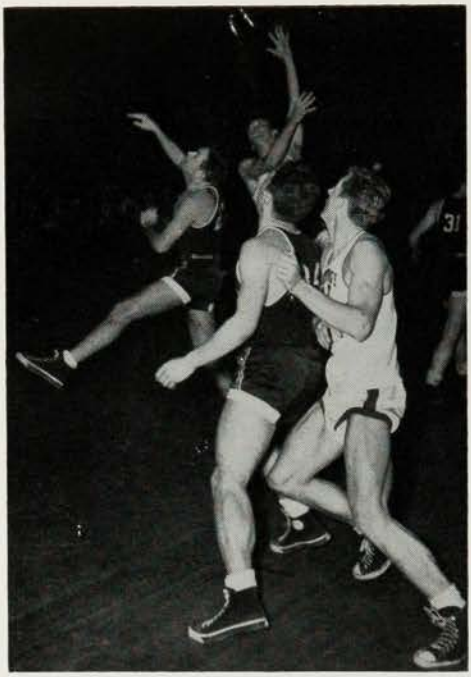

Marie Di Maio undulated into the spotlight to lead her Froshettes in an interesting piece of high-stepping while M.C. Lou Alexiou assured the audience that it "wasn't that kind of show." Jack Skelly, Phil Reiss, and Dick Riecken gave fine monologues while lovelies Jean Higginson and Anne Hayden did some truly professional singing. Barbara Levy, Pete, and Betty Russell flew through some soft-shoe and varied vocal patter. Jean Leaptrott and Charles Clement set moonlight and desert to music, followed by a red chiffon clad Florence Silverman and her "Roaring Twenties." Music by Walt Cottrell and his band, and a helping hand in the directing from Mike Curry wound up the amusing variety show. To the '53 class: "Beat this!"

Maynard Haithcock makes a hook shot as John Moffatt looks on.

SOUTHERN CONFERENCE TOURNAMENT

After winning one of the most exciting games in the 28-year history of the Southern Conference Basketball Tournament, beating William and Mary 78-74 in a triple overtime, the dauntless Buff "ten" fell to the N. C. State Wolfpack in the final round, 55-39.

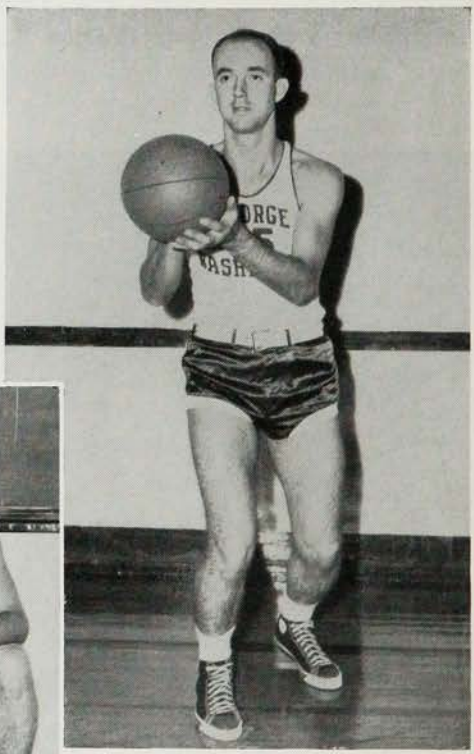

In the thrilling semi-final contest, little Gene Witkin led the scorers with 15 points. Entering the third overtime with only five men remaining (the other five had left on fouls) the Colonials scored a quick basket to take the lead. Sam Schreiber and Phil McNiff each countered twice from the floor to provide the winning margin.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

The major event in the program of Future Teachers of America for this year was an Inter-University meeting held on February 11th. The conference, sponsored by the William Ruediger Chapter of FTA, met in Columbian House. Representatives from Maryland, American University, Wilson Teachers College, and George Washington University participating in the three part conference, discussed mainly the proposal of federal aid to education. The conference was moderated by Dr. Edgar L. Morphed of the U. S. Office of Education.

Completing its first year as an officially recognized campus organization, the Pistol Club has more than 30 members.

Founded in June, 1947, by Johnny Johnson, present President, and Dorothy Stovall, present Secretary, the Club plans to compete in National Inter-Collegiate matches during the coming year. The activities of the organization were confined this year to the training of less experienced members and the forming of a team.

CURRENT AFFAIRS CLUB

"To discuss, stimulate interest in and promote understanding of local, national and international affairs" is the purpose of the Current Affairs Club of The George Washington University.

To carry out this purpose, the Club sponsored forum programs on current public issues at which qualified guest speakers presented their views. Each of these programs were usually followed by a discussion period in which the audience participated.

Among the programs which were carried out under the direction of Richard Johnson, president of the Club, were: A pre-election forum, featuring Congressman Brooks Hays; a campus straw election prior to the national Presidential election; a talk on "Which Way France?" by M. Jean Winckler of the French Embassy.

Another popular program featured Martin Agronsky talking on the subject "The Democrats Are In; Now What?" Agronsky is being congratulated on his fine presentation after the program by Dick Johnson.

GREEK WEEK

For the second year in the school's history, the members of the Greek fraternal orders on this campus joined together for a week of social festivities.

The highlights of the week were the Interfraternity Prom held at the Shoreham Hotel, and the Greek Week Smoker given at the Town and Country Club.

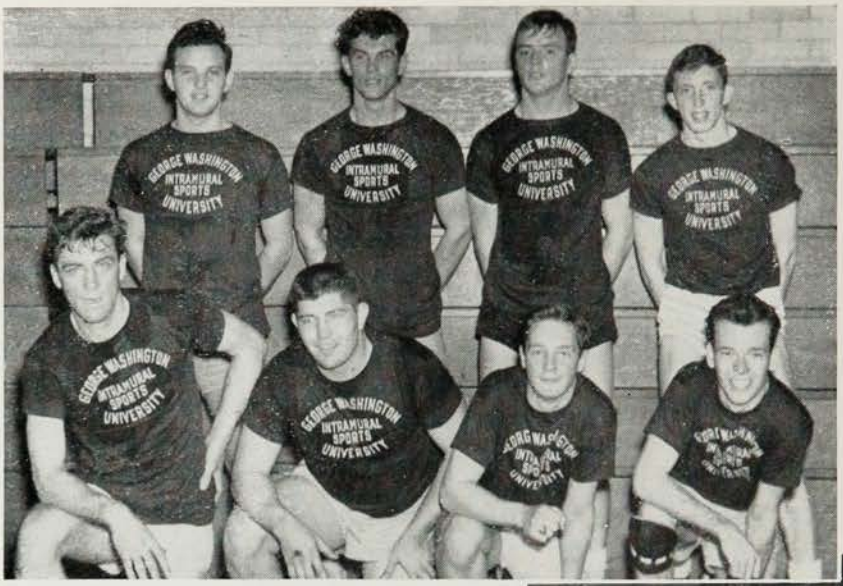

The gatherings began Saturday evening with informal dances at designated houses, and on Sunday the remaining fraternities gave tea dances. After the Smoker on Monday and the Tuesday stag parties, a discussion on the fraternity problems was held on Wednesday and the week successfully ended with the Prom Thursday evening.

MODERN DANCE CONCERT

Modern Dance Production Groups, under the direction of Elizabeth Burtner, highlighted a busy season with their annual dance concert on the eighteenth of March at Lisner Auditorium. Other activities during the year included a demonstration of composition at the convention of the Eastern Section of the National Education Association, an appearance on the Television Show, and participation in a symposium of dance at Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pa. The aim of the group, which may be found woven into all of its activities, is to further dance as a form of art.

"So happy we're floating on air" is the sentiment expressed by members of Modern Dance Group 1, in a scene from the dance, "Holiday Mood."

APRIL

The diligent spinner
Has a large shift.

Poor Richard, 1756.

April 1949

Courteous Reader,

April is truly the traditional month of the "Fool," but if that jollie fellow appeared on our campus, he kept himself well-hidden. . . . Perhaps by being drest in the guise of a diligent scholar, he succeeded in fooling us all! In keeping with the occasion, the University HATCHET published its "Tomahawk" issue, which was indeed a priceless bit of Journalistic endeavor. Poor George says that the ladies and gentlemen of the HATCHET staff should be commended upon their ability and wit.

Even those who don't belong to the "Honourable Fellowship of ye jollie friends" became light-hearted and gay, and a goodly number laid their books aside to attend the S.A.E. Spring Formal, the K.A. Dixie Ball, and the Pan-Hellenic Prom, all three of these events being reported as highly successful.

The campus mermaids convened on April 6th for the annual presentation of the Oquassa Water Carnival. Poor George says that these young ladies prov'd to be most talent'd and very pretty to watch. Also this month, Hillel presented a musical, the University Glee Club a concert, the Student Council their first annual musical, and the Universitie Players appear'd for the last time this year in "The Somersault in the Sea," a delightful bit of artistry. The Players have been truly active this year, and have received many favorable reports.

April hath tripp'd gaily by, foolish, and fancy free. Poor George sadly comments that scholars will have to turn their minds to more serious scholarly pursuit before the exams of May. To ye Jollie Fools, the best of luck when these do roll around. . . . I say, Beware of Professor Fogg.

Tomahawk Replaces Hatchet on Campus News Stands

April 1 comes and goes. So do April fools such as those who believe The Tomahawk (Vol. 1, No. 168½), which appears on the news stands each April Fools' Day to tell students all the facts.

"Doc" Blanchard and Glenn Davis will play on the Colonial team next year. Surprise! If students didn't know this particular edition of The Hatchet always predicts the impossible, they might really believe that the University is worth $12,000,000,000,000 and is being awarded as a jack-pot prize. (Come to think of it, the Charity Drive for a home for stray rats . . . two-legged ones . . . might not be a bad idea.)

Sub-editors by the name of John Marvelous, Dagmar Marvelous, Halliston Marvelous, Hubert Marvelous, and Inge Marvelous put out this issue for those with the particular sense of humor that enjoys Aunt Heliotrope, the "Staccatto" which contains a plot in-spite-of the three little maids, and even Georgetown's being coed. "Serious" editorials interested someone.

Maybe the reader (according to statistics there is one writer, and one reader) thinks that very little time is put in on this issue, but he may be assured that overtime is 1½ times as much work as normal working hours.

OFFICERS

Spring found the KD's concluding a very busy and successful year. Social functions, activities, and of course, studies combined to keep things from getting dull even for a moment. New rooms started off the school year with a bang, and were put to good use through an open house for the fraternities, one for the sorority pledges, and numerous chapter parties and functions, including regular Monday night dinners. Other major social events included the Founders' Day Tea, the Mothers Tea, and the annual pledge formal, held this year at the Hotel 2400. Exchange dances, picnics, and a Christmas party for underprivileged children rounded out the social calendar.

The KD's also found time to be active in all phases of campus life. Joan Brannon, president of Delphi, vice president of W.R.A., and associate women's sports editor of the CHERRY TREE, was elected to Who's Who. Jocelyn Hartford was tapped for Tassels, and Florence Hager was president of the Lutheran Students Association. Dede Thompson was music chairman of Big Sis, and art chairman for the Glee Club. Doris Severe was on the Cheerleading Squad, and Joan Brannon won the Golf Tournament.

The KD's can therefore look back on 1948-49 as a quite successful year, with work and gaiety interspersed throughout, and with fun always.

ALPHA EPSILON PI

With inter-chapter relationships as a primary objective, the Kappa Deuteron Charge of Alpha Epsilon Pi held many exchange dances and functions with its Maryland chapter. Also included were the annual basketball and football games between the two chapters.

The first post-war fraternity established on the GWU campus, AEPi was founded on April 13, 1947, with twenty charter members.

Included in the organization's functions is the now annual circus party which is held for a group of orphans in the city. Members of the chapter take these youngsters each spring to the visiting Big Top.

OQUASSA

After five months of preparation and practice, meeting twice a week at the Y.W.C.A. pool, the members of Oquassa put on their annual synchronized swimming production at the Central High School pool. The name of the organization was taken from a salt water fish common to New England waters.

With the hope of increasing the size of the group and also adding new numbers to the show, men were invited to join. Although the number of mermen participating in the show was relatively small, they presented a mimic of the girls' formation swimming, for a very clever diversion.

To add comedy and variety to this year's Oquassa show, a number of male students now take part in the production. Pictured above are seven of the original mermen.

THE UNIVERSITY ART CLUB

As its major project during 1948-49, the Art Club sponsored an All-University Art Exhibit during the month of April. Other activities of the organization have included lectures, forums and open discussions concerning art; the group has also given art assistance to the student body on a commercial basis.

G. W. U. MASONIC CLUB

The George Washington University Masonic Club No. 252 was organized in 1924 for the purpose of bringing together masons who attend the University. Later it extended its purpose to include the sponsorship of the annual Cherry Blossom Drive in order to provide funds for scholarships in the University School of Government. In 1948 this club was the recipient of "The Melville D. Hensey Trophy," a national award for the largest contribution to the scholarship fund.

DELPHI

Delphi is an honorary sorority made up of two outstanding members from each sorority on campus. These girls work together to promote good school spirit and to bring the University sororities closer together on a social basis.

Last fall, Delphi launched a campaign designed to bring the foreign students into fuller participation in campus activities. The group also entertained with a Spring Party honoring members of Panhellenic sororities which are not represented here at the University.

Members of Delphi are tapped each Spring at the Pan Hel Sing.

Charles Vorbach, as the supposed Inspector-General, walks, or rather, staggers, to bed, after convincing the town officials that he is the best Inspector-General that has ever given their town the once-over.

THE INSPECTOR-GENERAL

The University Players scored somewhat of a mild triumph this year with their presentation of Gogol's famous Russian comedy, "The Inspector-General."

The play was a personal success for at least two of the members of the cast. Charles Vorbach, famed for his performance as the witch-boy in last year's production, "Dark of the Moon," proved his versatility by turning in a fine performance as the foppish supposed Inspector-General. Warner Schreiner gave an excellent interpretation of a small-town grafter in his portrayal of the Town-Governor, the other male lead in the play.

Honors in the supporting cast went to James Finn and Gay Fullerton.

Warner Schreiner, as the Town-Governor, breaks the news of the impending visit of an Inspector-General to his subordinates.

John the Witch Boy entreats the Conjur Man to make him human so that he may woo Barbara Allen, while the witches above remind him of his earlier evil revels.

DARK OF THE MOON

Climax of the successes of the University Players' production of this Broadway fantasy, based on the "Ballad of Barbara Allen," came when London producers cabled the University for permission to use the original music and arrangements added to the New York score by two students, Virginia Csonka and Albert Berkowitz. The request was made on the recommendation of the play's co-author, Howard Richardson.

"Dark of the Moon" was presented on the Lisner stage in May, 1948. The Players' interpretation was immediately hailed as a smash hit, judged by professional standards. Critics proclaimed it superior to the Broadway production.

Outstanding lead performances were turned in by Charles Vorbach as John, a Witch Boy, who fell fatally in love with a human girl; Zelda Feichlander as Barbara Allen, the girl; and excellent supporting actors.

Brilliant direction by Mr. Edward Mangum and unique staging and lighting techniques completed a finely polished and deeply moving drama.

A weird contrast of situations is achieved as the homespun preacher speaks of good, fine things, while in the distance, Barbara Allen's misshapen witchbaby is burned.

KAPPA ALPHA DIXIE BALL

Let us now return to the days of the Old South and relive for forty-eight hours a typical week-end as it might have been in the early days of the Confederacy.

On April 29, 1949 Alpha Nu of Kappa Alpha seceded from the Federal Union. The Stars and Bars were raised over the Kappa Alpha House, and the annual Old South Week-end was on its way.

The night of the 30th the actives joined with the alumni at the Bethesda Country Club for an informal dance. Saturday, however, was the big day, at eleven o'clock the brothers and their Southern belles traveled up the B and O Canal for their annual barbecue.

The Dixie Ball climaxed the week-end; the Ball was held at the Washington Club. The brothers were arrayed in Confederate uniforms, while their dates whirled around the floor in their hoops and laces.

However, the outstanding feature of the Ball was the toast to Robert E. Lee:

One Mortal's life has been held aloft since the founding of the Kappa Alpha Order, as an ideal and inspiration upon which to pattern our lives. His patriotism, gentleness, and courage, his recognition of duty, graciousness and adherence to duty personify the epitome of the Southern Gentleman, a man who sought not glory or wealth, a man whose name will ever keep alive the spirit of youth for whom he labored —the youth of his legions—the youth of his college, the youth of all generations. Where in our little sphere of life could a more perfect ideal be found?

Gentlemen, Ladies, I give you the spiritual founder of the Kappa Alpha Order, Robert Edward Lee of Virginia.

STUDENT COUNCIL ELECTION

What the campaigner won't do!

Spring elections for the coveted Student Council offices always provide unusual episodes for at least a week before balloting and during the two-day election period.

From soap-box speeches and musical entertainment to a variety of parades, hopeful politicians give their all to prove their worth to their fellow students.

Minor political intrigues flow subtly beneath the surface of most of these campaigns. Whispered voices ask what support their candidate will get.

And after elections are over the heated arguments simmer down and the new officers take over their duties.

This year's Council, ably lead by Bill Warner, developed a more than adequate social program and almost doubled the number of programs offered to the students in Lisner Auditorium. An increased amount of student participation was the prime objective of the 1948-49 Student Council.

ALPHA ZETA OMEGA

Alpha Zeta Omega is a professional pharmaceutical Brotherhood whose aims are the advancement of pharmacy both in the educational and professional fields. The fraternity works towards improving curricula and raising standards, doctor-pharmacist relationships and industrial techniques, as well as uniting pharmacists into a socially constructive group working to aid local and world charities. Social activity is also an important function, the most outstanding recent event being the national convention held here last July, and a four-day holiday for members of the fraternity.

MAY

Ben beats his Pate
And fancies wit will come;
But he may knock,
There's nobody at home.

Poor Richard, 1742.

May 1949

Courteous Reader,

'Tis indeed the merrie month of May, and soon many of our most loyal and industrious scholars will be leaving University days and capers behind them to start life anew in the world of headaches and income taxes. To these, Poor George bids a fond farewell, the best of luck, and offers the following advice: "If you would miss the hard knocks of the world, duck going through it." Also he truly hopes that in future years, their memories of the University will be most kindly, and that they will remember only that Professor Fogg did not intend to be truly cruel when she compos'd question number ten on the final exam.

May held memories which were much sweeter than those of final exams though: the May Day festival, the Newman Club All-U Prom, the Engineers' Banquet, and, of course, the Senior Prom.

This has been truly an eventful, and pleasant year, as Poor George hath enjoy'd the parties, theatrical events, sports, and laughter of it all. It is with true sadness that he signs his last,

"Thine owne obediente and faithful servante,

Poor George."

MAY DAY

Last year, with final exams less than two weeks away, lovely Jean Hanson, Alpha Delta Pi sorority candidate, was selected as the 1948 May Queen by a group of hospitalized veterans at Walter Reed. Jean's attendants were Joanne Turney, Delta Gamma; and Virginia Teeter, Delta Zeta.

Outstanding students of the University were given public recognition at the May Day program. Members of "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" received their scrolls. Mortar Board, national women's honorary for outstanding activity service to the school, tapped eleven junior girls for membership.

Following the coronation of the Queen at the formal festivities in Lisner Auditorium, G. W. students, their guests, and representatives from many of the high schools in the area adjourned to the "Tin Tabernacle" for an old-fashioned carnival.

May Queen Jean Hanson.

Tot Weld, a member of Pi Phi's harem in last year's carnival.

Over twenty campus organizations sponsored booths providing a variety of entertainment for the participants. Among the concessions were dart games, ring games, games of chance, and side shows.

Sigma Nu won the cup for the best booth during the May Day program, with Pi Beta Phi running a close second.

In the May Queen's Court were Adeline Andrews, Pi Beta Phi; Joan George, Sigma Kappa; Julie Halloran, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Dionne Dalton, Chi Omega; Suzanne Lundgren, Phi Mu; Dorothy Downey, Kappa Delta; Harryette Schwartz, Phi Sigma Sigma; Barbara Stone, Zeta Tau Alpha; Mary Colton, Kappa Alpha Theta.

One of the most coveted honors a woman may receive at the University is to become a member of Mortar Board. Tapping for the next year's membership is held during May Day ceremonies at the University.

In order to achieve this high distinction, open only to seniors, a girl must maintain an over-all average of three-tenths of a point above the all-University women's average. Not only that, but she must be "outstanding" in the eyes of the members, and must have activities that are recognized by the University as a part of the regular extra-curricular activities.

This year Mortar Board conducted many projects in connection with their program for the advancement of women in the University. Starting with their information booth for freshmen during winter registration, they also conducted a panel discussion on getting started at G.W., and a career conference this winter with Representative Katherine St. George as guest speaker.

Officers are Betty Ann Paisley, President; Ming Chen, Vice President; Nancy Groves, Secretary; Virginia Myers, Treasurer; and Dorothy Whitley, Historian.

THE AMERICAN PHARMACEUTICAL SOCIETY
MORTAR AND PESTLE

The purpose of the American Pharmaceutical Association is to promote professionalism in the field of Pharmacy. The organization also fosters THE PERCOLATOR, a monthly magazine published by pharmacy students. Each year the association sends a committee to the Pharmaceutical manufacturing house, and also invites such distinguished speakers as Doctor Eliot, the President Emeritus of Purdue University in to speak to the group. During the year the association held an annual Pharmacy School Dance, numerous lectures concerning pharmacy, and sponsored a pharmacy week window display. The George Washington University Chapter of the American Pharmaceutical Association hopes to gain first place among United States Schools of Pharmacy in 1949. In 1947, the chapter won second place on this list.

Pharmacy students on campus are organized for social purposes in the Mortar and Pestle Society. The purpose of this society is to promote the friendship and social life of its members. Mortar and Pestle has enjoyed several busy seasons on campus in the field of sports. The group has held the Intramural bowling championship since 1944, the all University volleyball championship in 1947-48, and the all extramural volleyball championship in the district between Georgetown University, Maryland University, and George Washington University. The main projects of Mortar and Pestle this year have been the promotion of lab luncheons, the annual picnic, and Mortar and Pestle Society Dance.

NATALIE

Patricia Wiggins, a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, was judged the 1949 Cherry Tree Beauty Queen by Johnny Long, popular orchestra leader.

Miss Wiggins was selected from among 15 girls representing various campus organizations.

Judging was done in person by Johnny Long during a 12-hour period in which he was continually with the girls.

On a Saturday afternoon, the Cherry Tree candidates were the guests of the Sigma Nu fraternity, which entertained the girls at an informal cocktail party during which the "in person" interviews with Johnny Long were held. Following the two hours during which Johnny spent several minutes with each girl, the field was narrowed down to four finalists, who were Anne Diffenderfer, candidate of Sigma Chi and a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma; Julie Halloran, a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma; Pat Hart, representing the Newman Club, and Pat Wiggins.

Early that evening, the four finalists were interviewed on television during the half-time of a Washington Capitols basketball game at Uline Arena. Bob Wolff, local sportscaster, handled the interviews and also presented Johnny Long and his vocalist, Natalie Shepherd, who assisted Johnny during the afternoon interviews.

After leaving the arena, the four finalists and their dates were the guests of Johnny Long at the Club Kavakos, where the Long Orchestra was being featured.

During the two evening shows, Johnny introduced several George Washington students who were present and had Chet McCall, associate editor of the Cherry Tree, present the four beauties to the patrons.

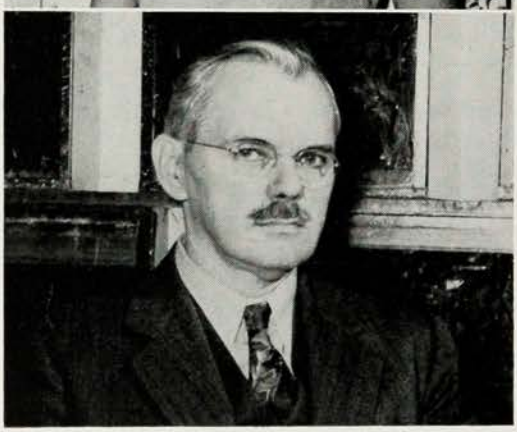

When the Club closed shortly after midnight, Johnny Long gave to the associate editor a slip of paper with the names of the Beauty Queen and the Senior Princess, Anne Diffenderfer.

Highly appreciative of being asked to judge the contest, Johnny's final remark was, "Are you sure the girls won't know who the winner is for two months? I know I'll be out of town then!"

THE 1949 CHERRY TREE

Jointly conceived by the editors of the 1949 CHERRY TREE and the Administration, this year's annual is unique in the history of the school, and perhaps in the country.

In order to give the book a wider appeal to the student body, it was decided to present the usual yearbook material in a new fashion. The editors and representatives of the Administration, working together through the fall, laid out the final plans late in December, and by early April the final few pages were tucked away at the printers.

The 1949 CHERRY TREE, as we present it to you, tells the story of the year in a sequential pattern, the style based on Poor Richard's Almanack.

Beneath this silent stone is laid,
A noisy, antiquated maid,
Who, from her cradle talked till death,
And ne'er before was out of breath.
Whither she's gone we cannot tell;
For if she talks not, she's in ——!
If she's in ——, she's there unblest
Because she hates a place of rest.

Poor Richard, 1738
